

Copyright

The information and services provided on the website and any software required for the use thereof are protected by (intellectual) property rights that are the sole property of IPI BV, the publisher of investmentofficer.com. No part of it may be reproduced, distributed, sold, published, modified, translated, processed or used for any commercial purposes whatsoever.

Any exceptions hereto may solely be granted with the prior permission of IPI BV. Storing data from the website in a database is explicitly prohibited, with the exception of automatic “caching” of the information by a browser. You may use and reproduce our articles as a private individual for strictly personal use.